Harrison Bay State Park

Located along 40 miles of Chickamauga Lake shoreline, Harrison Bay State Park offers many opportunities for the outdoor enthusiast including camping, boating, biking and fishing. The 1,200-acre park is approximately 20 miles from Chattanooga.

Historical Significance

Harrison Bay was the first state park in Tennessee. The park was originally developed as a Tennessee Valley Authority recreation demonstration area in 1937, and built by the Civilian Conservation Corps. The workmanship of the CCC can still be admired throughout the park. The name is derived from a large bay of the Tennessee River that covers the old town of Harrison. The original town site was also the last Cherokee Campground in the area.

Restaurant

Visitors can enjoy a local favorite, the Dockside Philly Cheese Steak, while dining at the Dockside Cafe, which offers an impressive view of Harrison Bay. For hours of operation, contact the Dockside Café directly 423-344-9998.

Fishing

Harrison Bay offers access to TVA's Chickamauga Lake, an impoundment of the Tennessee River. With over 35,000 acres of lake accessible, the park provides almost any type of fishing desired, whether by boat, bank, or the park's ADA accessible pier. Bass, bluegill, shellecracker, crappie, catfish, gar, and others are commonly caught. Valid TWRA Fishing License is required for ages 13 and older.

Planned Programs

During the summer, seasonal interpretive staff offers scheduled activities and programs including nature-related games and environmental education hikes.

Camping

Harrison Bay has 162 sites in four camping areas. Fifteen are waterfront and 134 sites have water and 50 amp and 30 amp electrical service. There are 28 rustic camping sites. All 162 sites have picnic tables and fires rings and are conveniently located near bathhouses with hot showers. A dumping station is centrally located. A camp store, open from Memorial Day to Labor Day, offers camping supplies and snacks. Camping area D is closed after November 1st, while areas A, B, & D remain open year-round. Online reservations are accepted. Stop at camp store to check in before setting up.

Group Camp

The group camp has 24 rustic open-air cabins with three sets of bunk beds in each, sleeping six people per cabin. The camp has a dining lodge and also features a playground, shelters, a ball field and basketball and volleyball courts. The camp can be reserved through the park office up to one year in advance.

Bike Trails

Bring your mountain bike and ride the 4.5-mile Bay Point Loop, an easy-moderate biking/hiking trail that meanders along the shoreline. Bike clubs and individuals throughout the region frequently use this popular loop.

Hiking

Trails range from easy to moderate. Explore the shoreline on the 4.5 mile multiuse loop trail. The 1.5 mile wooded nature loop offers some steep inclines and the 0.5 mile walking trail tracks through native grassland.
